MEET MY HERO DAD'

By Oliver Evans

PROUD Gregory Piechowicz has hailed his father, Andrzej, a hero after the 54year-old pulled a neighbour from a blazing flat on Sunday evening.

The 26-year-old was full of praise after his bakery worker dad went into the basement flat that was filling with deadly smoke from a chip fire.

Firefighters said if it had not been for the brave actions of Mr Piechowicz, the outcome could have been "far worse" for his 60-yearold West Street neighbour. No-one went to hospital.

Translating for his Polish father, Mr Piechowicz said: "My dad went outside for a cigarette and heard someone screaming.

"He ran to see what was going on. People were screaming: 'We are going to burn. We are going to burn'."

With the help of another neighbour, Mr Piechowicz set about getting the man to

The warehouse worker said his father grabbed the man by the collar and dragged him to safety. "He ran inside and saw a guy in there dazed and confused, so he dragged him outside.

"The man was not aware of what was happening around him."

Then his father, who lives next door with wife, Danuta, ran back inside to put out the blaze with a fire extinguisher.

Fire crews and paramedics then arrived and the occupant and his father were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation, along with the other neighbour. He said: "I am very proud of my dad. He is kind of a hero. He probably saved his neighbour's life.

Banbury Fire Station's Danny Hicks said "This incident could have had a far worse outcome for the resident of the flat.

Thanks to the actions of two of his neighbours, who noticed the smoke and removed him from the property, he was able to be treated at the scene for smoke inhalation only."

He said: "The premises had no working smoke alarms and we urge everyone to have these fitted in their homes and check they are working once a week. We would also like to remind people to only use suitable chip pans with a lid - and to never leave cooking unattended."

Debate over commissioners

■ GOVERNMENT plans for elected police commissioners will be discussed by Cherwell District Council next week. Elections for the post are due to take place in November. The council executive will meet on Monday at 6.30pm at Bodicote House, Bodicote.

Council agrees to pay back £11,600 after Ombudsman's ruling

Carer's joy over parking fine refund

By Oliver Evans

A CARER, who was slapped with a parking ticket while out with an Alzheimer's sufferer, has welcomed a ruling that overturns £11,600 of council fines.

Jo Davies was among a number of drivers who will get cash back because they were judged as wrongly being given tickets in were controversially introduced for disabled blue badge holders and for all drivers in the evenings from April 4 last year.

But the Local Government Ombudsman last week said the drivers who were later fined would have had no reason to go to a ticket machine, where the new prices were explained.

Ms Davies, a Hook Norton resident, was fined for not paying when she parked in a marked bay at The Mill Arts Centre, Spiceball Park Road, Banbury, on April 11.

The 47-year-old, who works for Oxford-based charity Dementia, said: "There was nothing around to tell me anything had changed. I was appalled.

"Who is going to go to the ticket machine if they think it's free? I was disgusted. I felt it was like verging on entrapment.

She lost an appeal against the fine at the council the following month, with bosses saying they had publicised the change in parking fees by issuing press notices, met community groups and put up posters in car

Yet it accepted letters to blue badge holders were delayed to mid-April due to problems sourcing all the addresse

Yet Ombudsman Dr Jane Martin said: "The council failed to take into account the fact that blue badge holders and evening users would have had no reason to use the ticket machine

Therefore, any notice displayed there would have been futile in terms

Jo Davies, who has had her parking fine refunded following a complaint to the Local Governemnt Ombusman OX50565 of notifying them of any change."

She said four out of the five motorists who had complained to her lived outside the area, so would not have known of changes.

Yet she did not criticise the decision to introduce the new charges and said extra signs put up on April 14 had put the matter right.

Council leader Barry Wood said he was "disappointed".

He added: "This authority went over and above the legal requirements to ensure that changes to parking charges were communicated well in advance of implementation.

The council scrapped evening charges and fees for blue badge holders using a disabled bay from November after an outcry.

Although the Ombudsman did not order Cherwell to repay all of the £11,600 parking fines between April 4 and 13, the council said, instead it "chose to go further than the five test cases and and pay back all blue badge and evening charges within the specified period".

Five 'premium brand' drinks are allowed to be served in glass

Club's licence review calms police concerns

By Oliver Evans

A CLUB, which is at the centre of police concerns over a number of fights that have broken out there, has been allowed to keep serving bottled beer so as not to put off "high end" customers.

The Chapel, Banbury, has been given permission to serve five premium brands, despite police concerns over bottle attacks.

Thames Valley Police brought a review of the Horsefair club's licence and last week supported new conditions to cut down on attacks.

Club solicitor Jonathan Smith backed plastic glasses – except for five "premium" brands like Corona, and sparkling wine and Champagne.

He told a council committee: "To put one of those into a polycarbonate, you are going to lose, to be frank, the higher end customers."

Four "floor walkers" collect bottles as a priority, he said, and locked bottle bins are put out.

Bottles had never been banned under the club's premises licence, he said

Police acted following 104 recorded incidents in about two years, including a brawl in September when a bottle was smashed over a clubber's head.

Matthew Newman, a club manager, was questioned by councillors over a drunk girl he let into the club.

He said: "She stood up straight and spoke clearly. After that police came up and said to me, 'You have just let a drunk female in'.
"I hold my hands up. I made a mistake."

A raft of conditions on the licence were agreed by Cherwell District Council members last Thursday.

The last entry will be cut from 3am to 2am, for nights that run to 4am, from Thursday, March 15. This does not include workers who have just finished at other bars.

A high-resolution CCTV camera will film the dance floor and maximum admission will be cut from 410 to 387 patrons.

There will be more door staff and the sound system will be turned down to help them hear better, the licensing sub committee

Three door staff will be on duty for the first 200 customers allowed in and another staff member will be added for every further 100 – making five staff on a full night, the club

Four to five currently work weekends and the licence will demand at least three, compared to two at present.

Door staff will evict those involved in fights at different times and from the back and front entrance to avoid fights outside.

Police licensing officer Laura Morris said: "Everything we had concerns about has been addressed.

"Putting the conditions together as a whole will have a big impact."

Mr Newman said: "We are happy that we have been able to work with Thames Valley Police to formalise a set of measures that will continue to ensure that these premises operate in a safe and responsible manner."

He said of the premium brands: "We are anxious to ensure that our customers should continue to enjoy these premium products in glassware, rather than them being decanted into polycarbonate."

Smoking rates fall

SMOKING rates in pregnant women living in Oxfordshire have fallen since 2004, new figures show.

Some 7.9 per cent of women were smoking in the period they gave birth from October to December compared to 12.2 per cent in 2004/05. The English average was 13.4 per

Gypsy site is to expand

■ PLANS to extend a Bloxham gypsy site have been approved. The east side of the Bloxham Road site will be extended, taking the total number of pitches from 20 to 36. The application was submitted by site owner Smiths, of Bloxham, a scrap metal firm also in Bloxham, a scrap metal firm also in Bloxham Road. Cherwell District Council's planning committee approved the plan on Thursday. Drainage and washing facilities will also be improved.

Number delay

■ A NEW non-emergency NHS number set to be rolled out in Oxfordshire has been delayed by three months. The freephone 111 number is for people that need medical help but not necessarily emergency aid. It was due to be launched in April.

Target is hit

A TARGET to get 100 affordable homes built across the Cherwell district last year has been met, council bosses said. Some 107 homes were completed, including homes in Milton Road, Bloxham, and Bryan House, Bicester. But the council has warned still not enough private homes are being built because of the recession.

Sainsbury's 'disappointed' over recommendation to refuse

Council to decide on store plan

By Oliver Evans

PLANS to build a new Sainsbury's on the edge of Chipping Norton have received almost 700 letters of objection.

West Oxfordshire District Council's officers have recommended refusing permission for the store, in the former Parker Knoll site in London Road.

Chipping Norton Town Council, Oxfordshire County Council Highways, campaign groups, Holy Trinity Catholic Primary School and 675 residents wrote to object.

Concerns included the 5,145 sq m store's impact on traffic levels, pollution and the viability of the town

Planning officers said it had not been demonstrated the store would not have a "significantly harmful impact" on the town centre's vitality and viability.

Scoots (Stop Chippy's Out Of Town Supermarket) spokesman Steve Piltz said: "We hope the councillors will see common sense and support the

The store will increase traffic four fold, the pollution will increase dramatically and, on the economic front, the likelihood is that the town centre will be devastated."

Sainsbury's spokesman Jodie Wales said: "We have provided West Oxfordshire District Council with evidence which we believe addresses the reasons for refusal outlined in the committee report. We are, therefore, disappointed with the recommendation to refuse our application.

"Over 1,100 local households responded to our recent consultation and more than half supported our plans, as a new store in Chipping Norton would offer more food shopping choice.

"It would also avoid the expense of travelling to other nearby competing towns for a main food shop, as well as creating up to 200 full- and part-time new job opportunities for local people."

West Oxfordshire District Council's uplands area planning subcommittee will decide on the scheme on Monday at the council's Woodgreen offices.

Matthew Measures

A TEENAGER, who plunged from the roof of a car park, may have fallen while trying to get a better mobile phone signal, a coroner suggested.

Matthew Measures was also battling depression caused by a skin condition and his AS level results when he broke into the locked Bolton Road multi-storey in Banbury in the middle of the night, the inquest at Oxford Coroner's Court heard.

The 17-year-old, of Broughton Road, Banbury, had consumed enough alcohol to make an adult drunk and had become lost on his way home when he stumbled on the locked car

Coroner Nicholas Gardiner recorded an open verdict saying there was not enough evidence to rule he had taken his own life.

"He might have gone to the top of the car park either to get a better view or a better signal," he said.
"I cannot attribute this to an act of self-harm. In these circumstances, I have to record an open verdict."

Philip Measures, Matthew's father, said following verdict: "We are devastated by his loss.

"We all miss him deeply. He was a lovely boy and had everything to live for. I'll remember his loving and caring personality. He loved his water polo, sailing and swimming.

Verdict on teen's roof HS2 protest group to stage public meeting

By Samantha McGregor

VILLAGERS will hold a public meeting to launch an opposition campaign over controversial Government plans for a highspeed rail scheme on their Action group Villages of Oxfordshire Opposed to HS2 (VoxOpp), is urging anyone who may be affected by the rail proposals to go along to the meeting on Friday, March 9.

On the agenda will be compensation, concerns about property prices and the launch of a fighting fund.

Banbury MP Tony Baldry, one of the MPs pressing for compensation, will speak at the meeting alongside local councillors and estate agent Michael Grahams.

In January the Government announced it would press ahead with proposals for a £32bn high-speed rail link between London and Birmingham.

The 250mph trains will skirt villages North Oxfordshire, including Finmere and Mixbury.

VoxOpp spokesman Mark Barton said: "At the moment there is no compensation scheme planned for sufferers of HS2, so we are trying to get public support for an MPs' group working on a compensation scheme.

"We are also trying to inform the local people about the issues of HS2.

"At the moment people don't realise how badly they will be affected."

He added: "The route is subject to out, the route of the rail line has the potential to change.

"Even if people think they are safe, they should come along so they can find out what actions they may need to take in the future."

The protest group will also set out a campaign to fight the proposal and launch an appeal to raise £5,000 so residents can be represented as the Bill goes through the relevant stages in Parliament.

The meeting takes place at the town hall, Market Place, Brackley, on Friday, March 9, at 7.30pm

■ MP cuts the ribbon on £1.2m 'Donaldson Court'

Homes project to be named after mentor

A HOUSING development, built with the help of young apprentices, has been named after the late life coach who mentored them.

The Donaldson Court development of ten one-bedroom maisonettes is named after Connexions worker Tulie Donaldson.

She was a "life coach" for the Miller Road, Bretch Hill, project and died following a short illness in December. She was in her 50s Banbury MP Tony Baldry, who opened the development on Friday said: "It was Julie who got the youngsters motivated at the outset of the scheme.

"She was respected and sadly died before Christmas.

By Oliver Evans

"Everybody felt it would be appropriate if the project was named after her.

The £1.2m affordable homes project was aimed at young people and provided training for 20, aged 16 to 25.

Work started in December 2010 and was completed with the support of Oxford and Cherwell Valley College.

Mr Baldry said: "This is a really good project. I think nearly everyone who was on the scheme has found work in the construction industry."

The Conservative added: "This has been a model scheme of providing skills for young people and some new housing for young people."

It was a partnership between housing provider Sanctuary Group, Southwark Habitat for Humanity, Cherwell District Council, Connexions and the college.

The unemployed have been given a further boost with the announcement that a centre to train youngsters will launch tomorrow.

The Foundation Learning Centre is aimed at helping people living in affordable housing who are not currently in employment, education or training.

The centre will offer qualifications including diplomas, apprenticeships and GCSEs. Initial services will be for 16- to 18-year-olds and adults later this year.

The George Street centre will be run by YMCA Training with Cherwell District Council, which has put in £60,000, and Sanctuary Housing, which owns the building.

Anne Linsey, YMCA Training chief executive, said: "We're really excited to be working with our partners to improve the prospects of people within the Banbury area.

Sanctuary head of local partnerships, Harjinder Lota, said: This new centre at the heart of Banbury will be an invaluable community resource."

Man jailed over bid to steal £6,700 batteries

A 40-YEAR-OLD man was jailed for stealing batteries worth £6,700 from an industrial unit in Banbury.

Arthur Stokes stole the batteries from kitchen equipment manufacturer Karcher UK Ltd in Beaumont Road while he was subject to a suspended sentence for another offence.

Stokes, of The Beeches, Chipping Norton, admitted taking the batteries each worth £268, on November 27 last year. He was arrested by police at the site after the alarm was raised by a security guard.

Stokes initially tried to claim that he was legitimately collecting them, producing paperwork that on closer inspection turned out to be a label from one of the batteries.

Judge Anthony King, sitting at Oxford Crown Court on Friday, told Stokes: "This was a piece of deliberate thieving. Theft of metal at the moment is absolutely rife.

"Those caught doing that must understand that they will suffer consequences as a result."

Stokes was given an eight-month prison sentence for theft.

His six-month suspended sentence was also activated, meaning he will be locked up for a total of 14 months.

Are you Gymophobic?

According to the Fitness Industry Association (FIA) only 12% of the UK adult population use a gym! Despite the enormous publicity given to persuading us to exercise more, the fact remains that most of us don't like gyms. In other words, most people are Gymophobic!

What is it that makes someone Gymophobic? We asked 200 women what it is that they dislike about using a conventional gym. 73% said that they found gyms intimidating. 69% said that they did not want to exercise alongside men and a further 39% said that they found most gyms to be full of young, slim, shapely girls who made them feel old and fat! 88% complained at lack of attention and advice~ from Gym

Instructors and 55% said that gyms were too time consuming. 61% said that gyms were expensive. 77% of women said that they did not feel fit enough to go to a gym and 49% said that they were too old!

Gymophobics

But things are very different at Gymophobics! Unlike conventional gyms, Gymophobics is not intimidating. There are no men on the all-ladies circuits and Gymophobics attracts thousands of women of all ages and all shapes and sizes. Members receive individual VIP attention from friendly, mature Instructors and the 30 minute workout means that almost everybody can find the time to attend. Unlike conventional gyms the Gymophobic programme is not demanding and requires no prior level of fitness. Even someone who has never exercised will find Gymophobics easy and fun.

Results are excellent! Most women lose a dress size in the first few weeks and go on to achieve a lovely figure. Gymophobics is fun and friendly which means that drop out rates are much lower than conventional gyms. People actually talk to each other at Gymophobics and there is a great social atmosphere which is enhanced by the varied social calendar, coffee mornings, charity occasions, etc. More than 70% of members renew their membership each year – more than twice the national average.

With memberships from as little as £1 per day for unlimited use, this is certainly a membership to suit everyones pocket.

Compared to weight training and hydraulic machines, 'air resistance' is much more Resistance exercise is the best way to tone up and burn fat, but not all resistance equipment is the same. There are various ways to perform resistance exercise. The commonest form is known as 'weight training' or 'Isotonic' exercise (ISO = same/tonic = tension).

It is fair to say that women think of weight training as a masculine activity. They associate weight training with body building, and assume that it will build muscles! For a female slimmer, that's the last thing that they want to do!

Weight training first became popular with bodybuilders and circus strongmen in the 1800's. Most conventional gyms still use this method which involves using free weights (barbells or dumbbells), or weight training machines. At Gymophobics we use our unique air resistance machines.

Another form of resistance training involves using 'hydraulic' machines and these are used in many ladies 'circuit gyms'. But hydraulic machines unnaturally 'work' the muscles in both directions making exercise much harder. In normal activity, we either push or pull, but with hydraulic machines you must do both!

Another negative feature with hydraulic machines is that they deliver 'accommodating' resistance. This means the harder one tries to work (by pushing or pulling with greater force), the more resistance is met! The downside of this is that when you use hydraulics, exercise never gets any easier!

Here at Gymophobics there are no weight training or hydraulic machines on our circuit. 'Air resistance' machines are a much more pleasant option for delivering resistance without the risk of building unwanted muscle. Exercising on our air machines is so easy it has been described as 'pushing or pulling against a cushion of Each air machine is designed to exercise a different body part. The machines are designed to tighten and tone the body but not to build muscles and are smooth and easy to use, and they also eliminate the danger of over training and muscle strain. Unlike hydraulic machines, air machines model normal activity. The muscle shortens and contracts (concentrically), then lengthens and relaxes (eccentrically) and the resistance level on each air machine can be pre set to reflect the member's capability.

Many women find gyms and health clubs intimidating,

Jubilee party announced

■ A 1950s-themed street party has been announced for Banbury's Market Place to celebrate The Queen's Diamond Jubilee. More than 1,000 children will be given post-war-style ration tokens to get a plate of 1950s-style food. Jam and jelly and hopscotch will add to the historical atmosphere at the Sunday, June 3, event, between 1.30pm and 4.30pm. A big screen will show royal events from the last 60 years, while revellers will be entertained with Punch and Judy shows, face painters and stilt walkers. The day will begin with a civic service in St Mary's Church, in Horsefair, at 1pm and a procession to Market Place at

■ Professor and Archbishop debate origins of the human race

Head-to-head over the birth of life

By Damian Fantato

THE world's most famous atheist admitted he warmed up for the debate of his life by singing hymns in the shower.

Last Thursday Professor Richard Dawkins, who lives in Chipping Norton, went head-tohead with the Archbishop of Canterbury, Rowan Williams, at a packed-out Sheldonian Theatre, Oxford.

They spent an hour and a half discussing "the nature of human beings and the question of their ultimate origin" as some 1,000 people looked on.

The sold-out event, which had been organised by Oxford University's Theology Department, was chaired by philosopher Sir Anthony Kenny.

As they began, Prof Dawkins said: "I was singing to myself in the shower this morning and I realised it was a hymn, which we probably all know."

Though he refused to sing the hymn, he did drop a hint.

The former professor for the public understanding of science at Oxford University said the laws of physics were "a thing most wonderful, almost too wonderful to be".

One of the main disagreements between the two figures was over the need to use God to explain the universe

Prof Dawkins put to Dr Williams: "Why do you want to clutter up your world view with something so messy as a God?"

Dr Williams disagreed, saying he didn't believe God had to be "shoehorned" in.

In a debate, which covered a wide range of topics, Dr Williams put to Prof Dawkins: "Darwin doesn't seem to have much to say on consciousness and one of the things that makes me wary of it (the theory of evolution) is this problem."

Prof Dawkins admitted the idea of consciousness was "deeply mysterious" and it could not be explained but said the problem would probably eventually be solved by "a combination of neuroscience and computer science".

As well as a packed Sheldonian, the debate was streamed online so millions around the world could watch it firsthand.

Lord Patten, the chancellor of the university, said: "The fact that the Sheldonian is packed and the fact that this is being streamed live highlights the importance of this event.

"It is wonderful that they have both come to Oxford this afternoon and we are tremendously grateful."

Late last year Prof Dawkins refused to share a stage in the Sheldonian with American philosopher William Lane Craig, accusing him of "self-promotion".

This led to Prof Craig's backers buying advertising space on the side of 30 Stagecoach buses which read: "There's probably no Dawkins".

Lost money could have paid for 1,360 hip replacements

Counting the £2.7m cost of wasted pills

MORE than £2.7m worth of unused medicines are returned unopened to Oxfordshire pharmacies each year.

But the problem could be costing the NHS four times as much — with about a further £8m worth of unused drugs languishing in people's medicine cupboards, health bosses have claimed.

This money could have been used to pay for approximately 1,360 hip replacements, 1,160 heart bypass operations, or 10,800 cataract operations.

The news comes as NHS Oxfordshire, the county's primary care trust, urges patients to complete their courses of medication, and think twice before ordering

Julie Dandridge, NHS Oxfordshire's Medicines Waste lead, said: "It's estimated that £2.7m of medicines are returned to pharmacies and surgeries in Oxfordshire

"But the amount lying in people's medicine cabinets or cupboards could be up to four times that figure.

"Everyone involved in prescribing, dispensing or reviewing medicines needs to make sure that patients are involved in making decisions about their treatment and that more medicines are taken as recommended."

Unopened medicines are taken as recommended."

Unopened medicines can be returned to pharmacies across the county.

But because of strict safety rules they cannot be reused. Instead they are taken to huge incinerators across the country and destroyed.

Ms Dandridge said: "In the same way you wouldn't want a joint of meat you have returned to the supermarket to end up back on the shelves, we would not reuse unopened medicines."

The appeal to stop wasting medication is part of a national drive to cut back on around £90m of wasted prescriptions across the country.

Among the most wasted drugs are inhalers for asthma sufferers and repeat prescriptions for things like painkillers for people with a host of illnesses.

Dr John Galuszka, a GP from the Victoria House Surgery, in Bicester, said: "There are a number of reasons why medicines are going to waste, including people no longer taking or using the drugs. Others may be put at risk if unwanted medicines are left in the

"If anyone has any unused medicines at home, we would encouraging them to take them back to the pharmacy for safe disposal and have a chat with the pharmacist about their medicines on how to use them more effectively."

GPs and pharmacists across Oxfordshire have been urged to discuss prescriptions more carefully with patients to make sure they are getting the appropriate medication.

Ms Dandridge said: "Unwanted drugs in the home may mean that patients are not getting the benefit they could be from their medicines. It also represents a large amount of waste

"We want patients on repeat prescriptions to think about what they are ordering and only ask for what they need and are running out of.

"Any other medicines can be dispensed when needed at a later date, as once medicines have been dispensed, they cannot be recycled."

Power for life

Delivering electricity to homes and businesses is about more than just cables and wires, poles and pylons. It's about providing people with a service that they can depend upon to help them live their lives to the full.

At Western Power Distribution we are investing many millions of pounds long-term on our electricity network to ensure all our customers continue to receive the same world class service.

We are proud to be leading the way in terms of customer service, network reliability, technical innovation and environmental care, but we are not complacent. This is why we will continue to set our own demanding performance targets and exceed those set by our industry regulator.

Our Target 60 initiative is a case in point, for when power interruptions occur its aim is to restore supplies within the first hour. This is a commitment our customers can depend upon.

Fears over countryside's planning guard

HALF of Oxfordshire's countryside is at greater risk of development because of controversial reforms, a campaign group has said.

The Campaign to Protect Rural England said 52 per cent would get less protection under new rules.

This rises to 87 per cent in and around Banbury, CPRE research claims.

This is an area where the local council does not have a specific policy on countryside development.

The CPRE argues that "undesignated" areas, such as these, will be more vulnerable under new Government plans. The Government's controversial "national planning policy framework" proposes changing planning rules so there is a presumption in favour of "sustainable development".

But the CPRE's head of planning, Fiona Howie, said: "Ministers have provided no reassurance that the final policy framework will recognise the value of the wider, undesignated countryside that makes up more than half of England's rural landscape."

She said: "If we are to avoid damaging the character of rural areas by making it easier for inappropriate, speculative building to take place – a bungalow here, a distribution shed there – decision makers must be encouraged to take account of the intrinsic value of the wider countryside when considering development proposals."

But Communities and Local Government department spokesman Sian Williams said: "We are determined to deliver a simpler planning system that makes absolutely clear the Government's intention to provide the homes and jobs that the next generation needs, while protecting our priceless countryside.

"New developments will still get a balanced hearing." banburycake.co.uk/news

Bonus for breakfast club

■ KRAFT Foods, the parent firm of the Kenco coffee factory, has donated £1,000 to Banbury School Breakfast Club. Workers from the Banbury plant joined Minister for Schools, Nick Gibb, to make the donation, which will be used by the club to provide healthy breakfasts and catering equipment. Simon Carr, a community champion at the Kraft Foods site, said: "We first became aware of the breakfast club through a member of staff, whose family regularly helps out at the school. It's a fantastic scheme to be involved in and we were happy to help out in any way we could."

RESIDENTS could soon pay council bills and parking fines at Oxfordshire post offices as part of a pilot scheme to keep branches busy.

Oxfordshire County Council hopes to work with post offices to see if they can save money and support the community facilities.

Oxfordshire is just one of 25 areas nationally that will test out the scheme, with post offices offering council services like taking pay ments for business rates, licence fees, council tax, and parking

The news comes three years after 22 branches were shut across Oxfordshire.

One former postmaster welcomed the new initiative. He said: "It is right to do this. To put the customer first and protect the people working there.

"People need a local post office and this is good news.

"Post offices are the heart of the community - an informal meeting place.

Oxfordshire MP Andrew Smith said: "It has to be welcomed as we want to defend our post offices

"But there is still this issue where post offices close due to some other reason and aren't replaced.

There still could be a creeping loss of post offices and we need to see action to see them reopened."

County council spokesman Gemma Watts said: "Oxfordshire County Council has agreed to become one of 25 'pathfinder' authorities to link with the Post Office to help improve its servic-

■ Family business reels after vintage parts worth uo to £25,000 are stolen

Raid on rare classics

MEMBERS of a family-run classic vehicle dealership are reeling from their first burglary in more than 40 years of business

Thieves broke into the Middle Aston business. between Saturday, February 18. and Monday, February 20, and stole valuable classic motorcycles.

They also took headlamps and radiator caps from cars dating back to 1911.

It is believed the cost of the stolen items could be as much as Vintage dealer Mark Elder said: "It is quite sad really. They took a large quantity of car mascots, some of which are totally irreplaceable.

"And then they took a selection of brass lamps and headlamps from a lot of pre-war cars.'

The pieces were taken between 5pm on Saturday though Mr Elder said they thought it was most likely been Sunday

Dream comes true for Emily

Emily Hufton, who dances with the Vienna Festival Ballet

EMILY Hufton, ballet mistress for the Vienna Festival Ballet, has the best of both worlds as far as she's concerned dancing every night in some of the most famous ballets of all time, while looking after the company's ballerinas.

This week she spoke about living the dream before appearing at Banbury's Mill.

"When I was very little I wanted to be an air hostess," Emily giggles, which is quite something, considering the 24-year-old has never done anything but dance.

Originally from Oxford, Emily started ballet at the age of three and, realising her passion for dance, auditioned and was offered a place in the Royal Ballet Junior Associates. She then went on to win a scholarship to Elmhurst Ballet School where she was chosen to dance with the English National Ballet on several occasions. Emily then joined the Vienna Festival Ballet, and is a shining example of what you can do when you set your heart on it.

So why did Emily join Vienna Festival Ballet rather than stay in a larger ballet company? "For me it was all about getting the opportunity to dance, because in bigger companies you don't get the chance to do so many shows. So it was a really great opportunity, because I get to realise and experience all the great parts and great ballets and don't have to wait ten years for the privilege."

Emily also loves the way that Vienna Festival Ballet brings dance to people who wouldn't ordinarily experience it. "We go to small towns as well as large cities, so it's not as exclusive as the Royal Opera House. This means we get all sorts of people coming to our shows. Lots of them come up afterwards and say 'We've never been to a ballet' or 'This is our first experience. You've changed our minds about it.' So we are spreading the

But even the most dedicated dancers must get exhausted by the constant touring after a while? "Yes, you do get really tired and Swan Lake is very hard on the girls because you are on stage for over two hours. So it's tough and draining but you also appreciate that you're working every day to achieve something.

For those of us who haven't seen Swan Lake, Emily can't rate it too highly. She said: "The music is stunning. It's a beautiful score and that for me is one of the most enjoyable things. Plus there are so many different characters, it gives you the full ballet experience. And you get to see real personality in the dancing because that's what the role requires."

So any messages for all the wanna-be ballerinas out there? "If you really want something, you can do it. I had people at ballet school saying 'That class isn't ideal for you' but then you get other people who are really encouraging. So, if it's what you really want to do, do it to the best of your abilities.

"In the meantime, I want to make the most of every opportunity and do everything I haven't done. I feel middle-aged as a dancer," Emily admits, "because you have to have the energy to go out there every night and give it your all. And it's getting slightly harder, which is why I'm ballet mistressing (mentoring) as well – but at the moment I have the best of both worlds.

"When I'm ready to scale things down, I'll probably teach or set up a ballet school. But there are lots of other opportunities out there. I could learn midwifery or go back to university - but I could never stop dancing because I dance when I wash-up and when I clean and cook."

And as Emily turns, ready to go back to rehearsals, I ask if any of her Oxford family will be coming to The Mill next Saturday? "Oh yes, I usually have about ten people in the audience if we come to Banbury.

"My parents and sister will be there with their friends. They tend to sit really near the front, which can be quite off-putting," she

■ Emily Hufton will appear with the Vienna Festival Ballet in Swan Lake at The Mill on Saturday, March 10, at 2.30pm & 6pm. Box office on 01295 279002.

Banbury to echo to the Blues

■ VISITORS to Banbury would be forgiven for thinking they had ended up in Memphis or Chicago this weekend, when the town holds its 25th blues festival.

The Banbury Blues, Roots and Acoustic festival is one of the highlights of the town's musical year - and attracts a dizzying range of artists from both near and

The festival is curated for the first time this year by musician and promoter Tim Porter, from Brailes, who has put together a stunning array of acts in three performance spaces at The Mill Arts Centre over two sessions this Saturday.

"The festival has become a popular annual event," said Tim, who is also responsible for running the annual Shipston Proms - an eclectic mix of all music from classical to rock.

"I have played myself and compered at the Banbury Blues Festival and have been putting on gigs in and around the Shipston area for some time, but this is my first festival."

The sessions take place in the afternoon and evening in The Miller's Bar, The Mill Theatre, and The Long Room. Topping the bill in the theatre will be the Larry Miller Band and talented harmonica virtuoso Will Wilde. Also appearing at the festival are Beth Porter, cellist with folk star Eliza Carthy's group who will be fronting her own band; Beth Porter and The Availables; and Oliver Darling.

Blues influenced musicians also include The Big Blues Tribe, Babajack, and fresh from the USA Eddie and Frank Thomas and The Reverend Robert.

And that's just for starters. "I'm really looking forward to Saturday and delighted to have the support of so many brilliant musicians," said Tim.

The Banbury Blues, Roots and Acoustic festival takes place at The Mill Arts Centre, Banbury, on Saturday, from 2pm (tickets £12 including a hot supper) and 8pm (tickets £18 advance or £20 on the

Just proving all is fair in love and war

Action/Comedy/Romance. Reese Witherspoon, Chris Pine, Tom Hardy, Chelsea Handler, Til Schweiger, Warren Christie, Angela Bassett. Director: McG.

All's fair in love and war for two US government spies with their hearts set on the same woman - in an actionpacked comedy from director McG.

This hare-brained buddy movie delivers slam-bang thrills and a few sparkling one-liners as rivalry between the two elite operatives escalates out of control, resulting in amusing abuses of CIA resources.

This Means War starts with a bang and McG certainly knows how to bolt together explosive sequences.

However, comic interludes don't always hit their target and the voyeuristic nature of the men's surveillance leaves a nasty taste in the mouth.

Like the heroine, we have to side with one of her suitors. This means half the audience will be disappointed by the overblown climax when the love-struck lady makes her choice.

The girl gets her guy, just maybe not the right one.

The film opens with a fast-paced action sequence in Hong Kong, where agents FDR (Chris Pine) and Tuck (Tom Hardy) are on assignment to apprehend crimelord Heinrich (Til Schweiger).

Instructions from their boss Collins (Angela Bassett) to be discreet are gleefully ignored, leading to a high-profile shootout.

To lighten the mood, ladies' man FDR helps shy and gallant Tuck to Tuck is instantly smitten. Soon after the date, FDR also encounters Lauren and he too falls

Armed with a dazzling array of hi-tech gadgetry, FDR and Tuck compete against each other to win Lauren's heart.

She is torn between the two men. unaware they know each other, and seeks advice from her pottymouthed sister. Trish (Chelsea Handler).

This Means War plays to Witherspoon's strengths as a comic actress, placing her at the centre of some elaborately staged set pieces, unaware her two handsome suitors are best buddies.

Alas, Hardy struggles to find his comic timing to soften his bruising hardman image, while Pine mugs shamelessly.

Thank goodness for Handler, scene-stealing with gusto as the saucy sibling, who dishes out filthy words of wisdom during her own love-making.

Banbury-prepared Aston Martin to challenge in world championship series

Driver Darren set for endurance epic

DARREN Turner will race the new Banbury-prepared Aston Martin Vantage GTE in the FIA World Endurance Championship this year, alongside Stefan Mucke and Adrian Fernandez.

The new championship will take the Aston Martin Racing team from Sebring to Spa and then on to the Le Mans 24 Hours in June. After the "home" race at Silverstone in August, the championship goes global with races in Brazil, Bahrain, Japan and China.

Turner, of Chacombe, is the longeststanding works driver at Aston Martin Racing and was on the winning team that took the then new and subsequently world-beating Aston Martin DBR9 to Sebring in 2005.

The Vantage will race in the GTE Pro class of the FIA World Endurance Championship and Turner, who was on track in the new car last week, is ready for the competition.

He said: "I'm excited about this programme as it's our opportunity to take Aston Martin to the top of the world of GT racing. The Vantage is a great car; she's coming along nicely now and we're ready to take on what we expect will be tough competition.

"The FIA WEC calendar looks good to me, especially as I've won in an Aston Martin at half of the tracks: Sebring, Silverstone, Interlagos and, of course, at Le Mans,

""We are going to Sebring with a brand new car, but that's what we did with the DBR9 back in 2005 and we won that race. I'm not promising we can repeat that but we'll certainly try!'

Aston Martin driver Darren Turner

Banbury are held for draw

Banbury Utd (Johnson 14) Chippenham Tn (Griffin 63)

BANBURY, looking to beat Chippenham for only the third time in 20 games, had to settle for a draw despite taking the lead against the Premier Division high-fliers.

After Dior Angus had fired over, Banbury took the lead in the 14th minute when Ricky Johnson raced on to a through ball and placed into the corner of the net from 12 yards

Well-marshalled at the back by Liam Dolman, Banbury nearly increased their lead, but Danny Edmonds shot wide.

Chippenham equalised in the 63rd minute when Scott Lye beat Joe Coleman on the left, and crossed for the experienced Alan Griffin to fire home at point-blank

Buyers get at NewBuy boost

By Gill Oliver

A NEW scheme, aimed at making it easier for thousands of buvers in Oxfordshire to purchase a new home, is being launched by the Government next month.

The NewBuy initiative will help both first-time buyers and those looking to move home by enabling house hunters to access 95 per cent mortgages on properties up to the value of £500,000

The scheme is set to make it easier for credit-worthy purchasers in Oxfordshire to secure affordable mortgages with only a five per cent deposit

The initiative is likely to go down well with buyers, many of whom see the size of deposit as the main barrier to purchasing a property. A recent survey by Taylor Wimpey revealed 54 per cent of first-time buyers had abandoned plans to buy a house in the last 18 months because they couldn't afford to save the large deposit required by mortgage lenders.

And 57 per cent of those surveyed also said they thought the Government should be doing more to help first-time buyers.

Taylor Wimpey will be offering NewBuy on all its developments across Oxfordshire.

Darren McCormack, regional sales and marketing manager, said: "Time and time again our buyers tell us that it is mortgage availability, not mortgage affordability, which is preventing them from buying. This scheme will help both those looking to get on the property ladder and those who want to move but have limited equity in their existing home, so it's good news for the market as a whole.

At Taylor Wimpey's development at The Cross in Banbury, buyers can choose from an exclusive selection of two- and four-bedroom individually designed homes with prices starting from £380,000.

To arrange a viewing, contact The Cross on 0845 071 8706.

For more information on NewBuy, register at www.taylorwimpey. co.uk/newbuy

- FULL details have been released for Hyundai's new i30 small family hatchback, showing low insurance groups, efficient engines and a starting price of £14,495. Both petrol and diesel fans will be able to choose from 1.4and 1.6-litre engines, with the 1.6 petrol only available with an automatic gearbox and the 1.6 diesel optionally available with one in Active trim and above. Every new i30 benefits from voice-activated Bluetooth, LED daytime running lights, a multi-function steering wheel and electrically-adjustable door mirrors. Standard safety systems include vehicle stability, emergency stop signal and hill-start assist control.
- A new 'pen' that can cover up minor motoring blemishes, such as key scratches, has been launched. JML's Mantis Scratch Repair pen (£9.99) works by drawing over the scratch and replacing the resin with a material that hardens once exposed to the sun. It is available from www.mantisperformance.com, ASDA, The Range and Wilkinson

CakeMotoring banburycake.co.uk/cars Rio raises game for compact cars

By David Duffy

Small cars have always been big business in the car world, but now they are huge.

The downsizing move started at the end of the last decade, but with economies shrinking and wallets tightening, some analysts are predicting that superminis will account for one in three of all European car sales by 2014.

All this is surprisingly good news for car buyers, as supermini specification continues to rise to meet the aspirations of people who want to downsize with no intention of moving downmarket.

Kia, a rising star of a carmaker, has always been good at packing in equipment to its compact cars, but with its build quality now streets ahead of its early days, the fixtures, fittings and feel of the new Rio start to look really impressive.

Longer, wider and lower than the model it replaces, the overall aura of the Rio is of a European, if not Germanic-built, hatchback, with solid ride, taut handling and a clean, quality feel about the interior.

The three-cylinder instrument cluster and dashboard is clearly laid-out, with a new set of toggle switches on the centre stack. Seats are large, firm and supportive and add to the solid feel.

Powering the test car was a 1.4-litre, four-cylinder diesel engine, delivering 89 horsepower. The car carried the EcoDynamics badge which involves a package of fuelsaving, CO2-reducing measures, including a 'Intelligent Stop & Go' engine technology, low rolling resistance tyres, a drag-reducing front grille, gearshift indicator and rear spoiler.

Linked to a six-speed manual gearbox, on paper it offers the prospect of up to 70mpg in day-to-day driving, but over almost 500 miles of urban crawl and motorway driving I could only manage 60.7mpg.

Another of the engine choices is a 1.1-litre, three-cylinder, turbodiesel which, Kia claims, has lower fuel consumption and CO2 emissions than any other non-electric car on sale in the world.

Competing against the big hitters in the supermini market, like the

WELL COVERED: The Rio may be a small car but it comes with the biggest warranty in the motoring market

Ford Fiesta, Renault Clio, Volkswagen Polo, Peugeot 207 and Vauxhall Corsa, the Rio comes armed with a wide range of safety equipment including electronic stability control, which detects when road conditions or driving style might cause the car to go out of control, and stabilises it by braking one or more wheels, reducing engine torque, or both.

And while the Rio might be a small car it still comes with the biggest warranty in the business.

One in four used cars still has debt attached

ONE in three used cars still has potentially hidden history, according to an analysis of more than 10 million checks carried out by HPI.

The most common danger is outstanding finance, with one in four cars still having debt attached to it.

A new buyer could be liable for all outstanding finance and if he or she can't pay it, the car could be reclaimed with no compensation.

HPI reports that 19 cars every day are found to be stolen in the process of its checks. Many others are never checked and go undiscovered. Other hazards include buying an insurance write-off that has been illegally repaired.

A furthersix per cent have been 'clocked', where the mileage is falsified and reduced to raise the apparent value of the car. This can be very costly to fall foul of, because it can mean missed or inappropriate services, late essential maintenance and potentially critical damage being caused.

One in five has had a number plate change. Many cars have been given personalised plates but fraudsters can use them to try to hide a car's past. The registration number should always be checked against the car's chassis number.

Meanwhile, a new special edition Mazda MX-5 'Venture Edition' roadster has been announced in a limited run of 800 units split two ways, to include 550 2.0-litre hard-top models and 250 1.8-litre soft-tops.

This is a luxury special edition, packed with high-end equipment, including heated brown leather seats, a Sanyo TomTom satnav.

The soft-top costs from £18,995, and the hard-top £22,285.

Brand new & used Vauxhall

Having experienced a massive success with our 'Man From Vauxhall Event', we now have a huge intake of quality part exchange vehicles which must be cleared.

Massive Choice

We must clear over 100 used cars. From superminis and hatchbacks to estates, saloons, sports models and 4x4 vehicles - many late model, low mileage cars with the balance of the manufacturer's warranty - you'll find exactly what you're looking for at a great clearance price.

You can also choose from models in the brand new Vauxhall range with massive savings against the recommended retail price and prices from only £6890!

Event cars at Cost Price

During our 'Man From Vauxhall Event' we offered brand new Vauxhall at cost price. A few models were not sold, so we've put them into our Clearance to give you even more choice and more chances to save.

The brand new and used Vauxhall Clearance at Bridge, it's one of our biggest ever events, it's one of your biggest ever chances to save.

Don't miss your chance to save on a new or used Vauxhall
